Shahminee Selvakannu has taught English language in two different educational institutions in Malaysia before joining in as English Language Teacher at UCSI.

She is currently pursuing her Masters in World Literature at Universiti Putra Malaysia and is at her final semester of completing her course. Her focus of research is Criminology in Malaysian crime and investigation novels in English language. In the hope of analysing both revenge and emotional response as a platform in her selected texts, her study aims to analyse the motives behind every criminal act in the plots of the novels from psychology and sociology perspectives.

Besides analyzing novels, Shahminee also has experience in editing and writing articles. She took up a short story writing course with London School of Journalism (LSJ) and her first short story was published in Readings from Readings 2: New Writing from Malaysia, Singapore, and Beyond in 2012.

When she is not working or studying, Shahminee finds time to watch movies and chatting with friends over a cup of coffee.
