Message from
DATO' PETER NG

UCSI Group Founder and University Council Chairman

The past few years have been eventful ones for all of us at UCSI University. The University continues to break new ground and expand its global footprint. Classified by the QS World University Rankings 2023 in the world's top 0.9%, UCSI stands out as one of Malaysia and South East Asia's best private universities.

While these rankings are reassuring, we have been ever-cognisant that the true measure of UCSI's success lies with that of our students. As far as graduate outcomes go, we take heart that 100% of our students and alumni go on to secure employment or start their own business every single year. This stellar record is anchored on an endeavour that dates back to 2004 - the Co-Operative Education Placement Programme, better known as Co-Op.

Starting with only 21 local companies, Co-Op grew exponentially and today, UCSI partners with more than 4,500 global companies. This unique setup provides students with internship placement, apprenticeships, knowledge transfers, joint research opportunities and most importantly, job opportunities. We engage the industry at every opportunity and we are pleased that many of the world's best brands are collaborating with us.

By bringing the industry into the campus, UCSI empowers students long before they graduate. On top of gaining the inside scoop on the best practices that make companies great, students are also encouraged to pursue their intellectual and entrepreneurial bent. In fact, many respond by taking advantage of business incubators on campus and participating in - and often winning - intervarsity business challenges.

Increasingly, more students are launching their own startups before they even graduate. Many have been acclaimed as seed planters and three of our alumni were inducted in the Forbes 30 Under 30 Asia 2018 list for their path-breaking efforts in social entrepreneurship. Many more are charting path-breaking careers in their respective fields from banking to science to mass communications and music. This is the Co-Op legacy. Moreover, this is your reason to believe that your studies at UCSI will be consequential.

Message from
PROFESSOR DATUK IR TS DR
SITI HAMISAH BINTI TAPSIR

UCSI Group Chief Executive Officer and UCSI University Vice-Chancellor

UCSI University is on a mission to promote transformative education that empowers students from all walks of life to be successful individuals with integrity, professionalism and a desire to contribute to society. One of the driving factors for UCSI University to be Malaysia's top private university in the QS World University Rankings 2023 is strengthening the relationship between the university and the industry.

UCSI University is appreciative of the strong linkages with the industry through the Co-Operative Education Placement Programme (Co-Op). This industry training programme offers a real and realistic view of industry practice for students to appreciate a good understanding of world practice and be ready for the world of work after graduation. This was reflected in the survey carried out by the Co-Operative Education Centre and Job Placement Centre in 2017 where 98% of the students felt more prepared for their careers after completing their Co-Op placement.

The university is relentless in developing students with an entrepreneurial attitude and management skills. In the recent employer evaluation of UCSI University students, 99% of them were satisfied with the students' performance during the Co-Op placement duration. I am also very pleased to see that 97.8% of our Co-Op partners would like to rehire UCSI interns.

INTRODUCTION

HISTORY | MISSION | FUTURE PLAN

THE UNIVERSITY, THE EXPERIENCE

Built on the principles of audacity, perseverance, integrity and excellence, UCSI University is a leading institution of higher learning with campuses in Kuala Lumpur, Springhill (Seremban/PD) and Sarawak. Since its inception in 1986, UCSI University has been committed to furthering the discovery and celebration of knowledge.

As a Praxis University, UCSI University strongly believes in the university-industry engagement to allow its students to practise what they have been taught in lectures. The launch of UCSI's Co-Operative Placement (Co-Op) programme in 2004 is the first of its kind in Southeast Asia. Each student is required to obtain at least two months of internship experience at the end of each academic year, regardless of their discipline.

The programme is mandatory for students to be evaluated by employers and faculty members. This would enable students to be equipped with a strong grasp of fundamental workplace practices and the underlying assumption that make them work. With greater access to higher education, competition in the workforce would only intensify and UCSI University wants its graduates to hit the ground running.

The Co-Op programme in its first year had only 21 companies signed up and only 30 students were attached to the companies. Nevertheless, year after year, confidence from the industry partners grew and consequently, more students participated in the Co-Op programme. In 2018 alone, UCSI placed more than 3,700 students in over 4,200 companies. Over the years more than 33,000 students have been attached to prominent multi-national companies such as KPMG, PwC, Publicis One, Top Glove, Nestlé and AIA Group and also reputable local companies such as Star Media Group, Genting, Astro, and Leaderonomics.

STAYING FUTURE-PROOF THROUGH THE YEARS

In each level of the Co-Op programme, students are tasked to function as a permanent worker in the company. This is well understood by the industry partners as the Co-Op programme aims to cultivate graduate attributes such as entrepreneurship and management skills among students. Sustaining the UCSI graduate attributes and educational goals will help in enhancing the contribution of UCSI graduates to the community, society and to the country.

With the success of the Co-Op programme, UCSI University seeks to continually strengthen the engagement with the industry through the Premier Co-Op programme that was launched in 2016. This provides opportunities for the industries to work directly with a team of students and professors to contribute to the work process through research and teamwork. Through this new programme, the industry can acquire talent directly from the university.

The world has entered the 4th Industrial Revolution with the Internet of things, data analytics, data science and artificial intelligence on the rise. This development will impact the future careers of university graduates. UCSI University is aware of this new wave and is preparing its graduates with skills to face the challenges ahead in this era.

UCSI UNIVERSITY PRAXIS CENTRES

The UCSI University's Praxis Centres serve as a focal point in applying academic, practical learning and industry placement to ensure students have real experience of the workplace. The Praxis model is a tri-party arrangement between faculty experts, industry leaders and student trainees to enable better collaboration to develop academic knowledge and hands-on practical experiences in a real-world scenario.

This emphasises the integration of classroom learning with workplace experiences. The Praxis Centres perform as profitable in-house business entities assisting students to experience real-world practices with top industry players.

UCSI University's Co-Operative (Co-Op) education is an advanced model of industry experience from the early years of learning to the final academic year of each student while enabling them to gain access to reputable business partners with professional guidance.

By incorporating the Praxis model, The Praxis Centres' Co-Op placement matches the qualifications of our students with the needs of employers. Students will have the opportunity to develop their skills and the industry will have the opportunity to train the students for future industrial careers in specialised fields. It is an opportunity for the industry to work together with UCSI University to develop a highly skilled workforce.
