The most interesting thing about being here in Malaysia is the food! The milk tea here and everywhere in Kuala Lumpur is delicious! The accommodation here (Le Quadri Hotel) is really comfortable.

The teachers we had were very good, they were skilful and friendly. I like the presentation part and I got to do it almost every day! It helped me to improve on my skills.

To anyone in Vietnam who wants to learn the similar English course, they should come to UCSI – it's the best!

Everything here is good, even though pricing is a bit high in Malaysia. The food is unique – Chinese, Malay and Indian food are everywhere.

I enjoyed every lesson here – I have the chance to use English all the time, able to be in contact with some international students, and the activities are a lot of fun!

If I were to come to Malaysia again, I will visit UCSI and see how it has changed. I will also visit Penang and other places around.

I highly recommend this course – cool and fun!

People here are friendly and I like the food here the most! Earlier I thought food would be difficult for me as I was not familiar with what kind of food they have, but it turned out the food is suitable – I especially like their Chinese and Pakistan food.

I very much like the course; it's not too easy nor too hard. I especially like the presentation part, as it helped me to use English more and built my self-confidence.

If I were to come back to Malaysia in the future, I will come to UCSI first. It gives me good memories, and I want to see how it changed.

I am happy with the one-month English course because I gained a lot of experience; the local people and the lecturers are really friendly. I really liked the lessons with Dr Genevieve. She brought students from other classes and we had games and fun.

I would absolutely recommend my friends for this English course. Unlike when we are at home, we can get to be lazy, but once we are in overseas, with the changed environment, we will be more active learning.

I really like the food here, like “nasi lemak” even though it’s a little spicy, but I like it!
