KUCHING: Pursue what you are passionate about and be the best in it, Bandar Kuching MP Dr Kelvin Yii has called upon the 800 Sijil Pelajaran Malaysia (SPM) 2023 candidates attending the two-day 'SPM Power Preparation Workshop' at the UCSI Hotel here.

Deemed as the largest ever SPM revision workshop involving in Sarawak to date, the programme was jointly organised by Bandar Kuching and Stampin parliamentary service centres and UCSI University Sarawak Campus, and gathered students from 42 schools here.

"I am a policymaker and I change policies that would hopefully impact the lives of others and of the nation.

"My passion is to help people and whenever I am faced with obstacles, I always remind myself of why I do what I do," Dr Yii told the young audience at the event's launch yesterday.

"Everything you do today will determine your future endeavours and success. Find that passion but of course, nothing comes easy as everything needs hard work."

Sharing his tips of success, Yii highlighted the need to set clear goals, pick up a good reading habit, always be on time, and also to never be afraid to ask questions.

"Always remember this, for whatever gifts, talents, abilities or knowledge that you have; these should not make you be too proud but instead, stay humble and keep learning from those around you," he said.

"I believe in young talents and that is why we want to provide this platform not just to prepare you for the examination, but also to tell you that we believe in you and we support you."

Also present were UCSI pro-vice chancellor Mukvinder Sandhu, its director of marketing and student recruitment Samuel Pui, manager for marketing and student recruitment Joan Jong, student ambassador representative cum project manager Tang Ren En, and Yii's special assistant George Lam.
